THOUGHT and COMMENT

THE STRIKE

Is England going to benefit from the wallop she has just received on the sensitive end of her proboscis or is she going to sulk like an ill tempered child and learn nothing from the experience of the General Strike which has cost that nation millions of dollars? Someone pulled a terrible blunder in that strike, either those who called it or those who permitted it to be carried out and the next few years will probably be spent by some of the enthusiasts in trying to decide who was to blame. The remainder of the time will be spent trying to find out who won.

There are many lessons that can be learned from the strike both in our everyday home and business life and in the life of the state and nation. Strikes always have been costly not only to the employers, but employees as well. The benefits to be gained must be great for a laboring man to throw his family out of an income for an indefinite time to win his point. That the laboring man should be forced to resort to methods of this kind in this day and age of regrettable but nevertheless it is his only weapon, and in the manner that he uses it will either help or retard his development.

That laboring conditions are a great deal better today than they were ten years ago cannot be denied, that they are somewhat improved over five years ago must also be admitted, but that the next ten years will see a still greater improvement must also be given serious consideration.

England has just had a wonderful object lesson. What is she going to do with that lesson? The entire world is keeping an eye on the developments.

We know two mothers who are treating their two youngsters who are both in the crawling stage by entirely opposite methods. One picks up every time he takes a tumble and bumps his nose the other lets her son cry it out and learn his lesson from the bump. Who is going to win in England, cold facts or the sympathetic sob-sister?

PLSUDSKI AND REBELS TAKE OVER CONTROL

Polish Hero and Followers Send
An Ultimatum to President
And Cabinet

(By Universal Service)
WARSAW, May 13.—(Copyright 1926, Universal Service) The Polish White House has fallen. At one o'clock this morning the official Polish telegraph agency issued an unofficial communication confirming that Marshal Joseph Pilsudski was in control of Warsaw "almost completely."

The communication stated that the White House "is expected to surrender within a few hours." Just before midnight a report reached Berlin that Belvedere Palace the Polish White House had been captured by the rebelling forces and that President Wojciechowski had been arrested. This report was denied in other reports. President Wojciechowski, Premier Witos and the other members of the cabinet with two local regiments of the Presidential guard, several armored cars, some machine guns and several pieces of artillery earlier in the day were reported to be making a desperate stand in the palace.

At 10 o'clock last night Marshal Pilsudski sent an ultimatum to Belvedere Palace giving the government a limited time to surrender failure of which a general attack would be ordered. In addition to the large number of men killed a still greater number of wounded are given in the excited dispatches reaching Berlin. Negotiations with the government failed to bring an agreement between the president and the rebelling forces. The government at a late hour was said to be still striving to mobilize enough loyal forces to combat the troops sent over to Pilsudski.

Marshal Pilsudski is reported to have taken five and seven regiments to Warsaw from Lemberg.

Church Fails to Get Registered; Marriages Illegal

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, May 13.—The validity of over a hundred marriages and the legitimacy of close upon four hundred children will need a special Act to be passed by the British Houses of Parliament owing to official carelessness in the consecration of a church.

St. Mary's Church, near St. Albans in Hertfordshire, as consecrated with the full ritual attending such ceremonies by the Bishop in June, 1921. And from then over a hundred marriages have been celebrated, but owing to an oversight the church was not registered or licensed for marriages. Consequently all these marriages are as void and the issue from such unions are illegitimate, and it is to remedy this that a special Act of Parliament has to be passed.

Bitterness Is Following In Wake Of Strike

Although General Strike is Called off Employers Want to Dictate Their Own Terms

(By Universal Service)
ROBERT J. PIENK

LONDON, May 13.—The first day of industrial "peace" since the declaration of the general strike in Great Britain saw the development of more intense bitterness than has been exhibited since the workers walked out.

The employers generally are scornful of the appeal of King George and Premier Stanley Baldwin for "peace without vindictiveness" and the national truce still is complete as ever.

The mood of labor, as summed up in London, is "all none" meaning that the corporations will not be allowed to "hand pick" the men to be given back their jobs.

Following the statement of the railroads that, owing to the depressing effect of the strike on industry they will be unable to re-engage all their own, the railwaymen's unions met at their headquarters this afternoon and declared that if a national strike would be continued their decision affects half a million men.

Prime Minister Baldwin announced in the House of Commons this evening that the railroad managers would meet the delegates of the railway unions tonight in order to try to reach an agreement, and that employers and unionists in other trades would confer tomorrow with the same object in view.

Simultaneously, the Trades Union Congress, which this evening held another meeting, issued a declaration warning employers that labor would stubbornly resist any attempt to victimize the strikers.

The statement said: "The employers are trying to force humiliating conditions on the workers. If they imagine that the failure of the strike means the failure of the trades union movement, the employers are making the mistake of their lives."

We looked for reciprocity, not victimization."

The Trades Union Congress, it was announced, will remain in session from day to day until the conflict has been settled.

The railroad management stated today that they would undertake to accept as many for duty as possible, but on the understanding that the strikers would return to work without being given back their jobs. They added the reservation that they would have to consider the cases of men in positions of trust and responsibility. The Trades Union Congress claims it still controls the situation, and that the workers are ready to respond with entire discipline.

The employers are showing more indulgence than in any dispute since the war. They feel that for the first time in many years they are able to dictate their own terms to the workers without being browbeaten by the labor bosses. Newspapers still are being produced by non-union labor, but they remain of handbills.

The publishers are unable to agree to the proposal to cut the wages of the strikers, but they are unanimous that provision must be made against further interference by the mechanical staffs in question, or editorial policy, to operate buses.

The doors of all the printing offices were besieged today by men desirous of returning to their jobs, but the publishers spent the day conferring on the terms upon which the strikers should be re-engaged. The newspaper proprietors are prepared to accept only the services of men offering them unconditionally.

The London Omnibus company announced today that it would require under the old wage scale all drivers and conductors who did not participate in attacks upon the company's vehicles during the strike. Today, however, bareheaded college boys "plus four" continued to operate buses, the number of which on the streets showed a noticeable reduction.

The government has ceased recruiting constables and emergency workers, but will retain its police forces until the unions and employers come to terms. The authorities also will retain control of food supplies and their distribution.

The Times today opened a national fund for the benefit of the police, who are being praised throughout the whole country for their fearless and patient handling of the strike situation.

BALDWIN GIVES JOHN HUZEFKA OUT WARNING FRACTURES LEG

(By Universal Service)
H. H. STANSBURY

LONDON, May 13.—In an atmosphere charged with intense interest, Premier Baldwin tonight appealed to employers throughout Britain not to engage in any general attack upon the trades union as a result of their surrender yesterday.

The Prince of Wales with his brother, the Duke of York, headed the strike-breaking forces. The men who swarmed the galleries to hear the government proclamation about the new phase of the national crisis which brought corporations and their workers into a new conflict.

Former Premier Ramsey MacDonald also had presided at a meeting of his party earlier in the day in order to consider the latest dramatic developments in the situation, and opened the debate in the House of Commons with the brief but trenchant utterance: "There are more men out today than yesterday, because the employers are offering impossible terms to the workers. The country thinks he can now drag trade unionism through the dust he is much mistaken."

"We want no guerrilla warfare between capital and labor. The men must be treated as independent self-respecting workers who are not going to crawl back to be treated as human beings with a yoke of absolute subordination riveted about their necks."

Premier Baldwin, cheered by his supporters, replied that he had never believed the crisis could be straightened out in a day.

Gessler May Be New Head Of Germany

Reichswehr Minister Temporarily Named to Fill Position Vacated by Luther

(By Universal Service)

BERLIN, May 13.—Reichswehr Minister Gessler behind whom stands the grim figure of Gen. Von Seeckt, creator of the new German National army, was acting Chancellor of Germany today. He is also believed to have the best chance of becoming the permanent Chancellor, succeeding Chancellor Luther who has asked President Von Hindenburg to relieve him from duty at once.

The stirring events of his period in office, culminating yesterday in a vote of lack of confidence in the Reichstag, have brought Dr. Luther to a point where he is exhausted, broken hearted and threatened with nervous collapse.

The appointment of Dr. Gessler, who has the full backing of the Reichswehr, insures the safety of the country in the present period of tension of Putsch rumors as well as the coming election battle over the former royal properties.

Lumber Officials Face Indictments

(By Universal Service)

FRESNO, May 13.—Federal indictments charging four wealthy San Francisco men and two others with using the United States mails to defraud were returned by the federal grand jury late this afternoon.

Those indicted were: Charles E. Virden, San Francisco president of the Virden Packing Company.

Samuel E. Whiting, San Francisco capitalist.

A. L. Hancombe, San Francisco attorney.

W. Fink Mitchell, San Francisco banker and capitalist.

W. D. Mitchell, Fresno, former president of the defunct Valley Bank, and father of W. Fink Mitchell.

J. M. Bruere, Sanger, business associate of the elder Mitchell.

The indictments were returned after an all day session of the federal jury here, during which the inquisitors heard more than thirty witnesses, introduced by J. E. Simpson, deputy United States District Attorney.

Each indictment listed six counts, charging use of the mails to defraud, and conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. The charges were based on alleged fraudulent representations made in correspondence relating to the exploitation of the Mitchell-Virden Lumber Company, in which the Mitchells and Cirden were interested.

Simpson declared that the indictments had no connection with the recent failure of the Valley Bank, it being only coincidental that Mitchell was interested in both the bank and the lumber concern.

WHY THEY DON'T VOTE

Quite frequently someone calls attention to the danger to representative government caused by the fact that every year an increasing number of Americans are staying away from the polls. President Coolidge himself has pointed this peril out in his recent address to the Daughters of the American Revolution. It is often remarked, too, that the citizen who doesn't vote in nine cases out of ten is a conservatively inclined citizen, whether he be republican or democrat.

It might be suggested, therefore, that there is another reason for this lack of interest in voting than mere laziness on the part of the average citizen nowadays, the percentage of those voting to the whole number eligible seems to grow less. One reason for this which is not often dwelt upon is that, when it comes to voting, the average citizen is getting too much of a good thing, and nothing palls on most Americans more than this.

In the "good old days" we went to the polls once every two years to vote, and that was about all there was to it. But now we have two or three elections nearly every year, and worst of all, a "dog" and "cat" squabble preceding each one. Instead of the biennial election to express the will of the people, this present year starts off with senatorial and state primaries, local primaries and all sorts of primaries. And in a good many communities there will be campaigns on bond issues and various other referendum ideas. No wonder then that by the time the regular election rolls around a lot of people will be too weary with it all to go and vote. For there is nothing quite so disgusting as a primary which tends to be disgusting. Then next year there will be city and state elections in some of the states, to say nothing of more referendums, and these will last until it is time for the presidential primaries to open up again.

This is all quite different from the old days when the people voted in November on the candidates selected in convention and left the selection of the United States senators to the state legislatures. Of course, once in a while there was some anguish over the result of a state convention, but no convention unrest ever lasted as long as the mildest primary does nowadays.

For a long time the cry has been "let the people rule," taking the authority away from delegated meetings and giving it to the voters direct. But the way they are failing to come out and vote might indicate that the people are getting tired of ruling. Perhaps the best way to whet their appetites would be, not to pass a law compelling them to vote but to abolish a lot of useless primary campaigns, so making the general election a pleasing novelty again.

TROUBLES IN EUROPE

Another country in Europe which is having its troubles, and one of which the people of the United States hear comparatively little, is Roumania. Some of these troubles have grown out of the treaty of Versailles which awarded the province of Transylvania to Roumania taking it from Hungary.

According to a correspondent of the New York Times, the Roumanians who live in the mixed population of Transylvania hailed the annexation of their state by the mother country with joy. But this joy has been followed by disappointment. They have found that the Roumania of their dreams never existed and that it is a backward country with an archaic government, shot through with corruption. Now factionalism is developing between these new Roumanians

DEATH OF WASHINGTON

Washington died in December, 1799, during the excitement caused by the unpopular laws which stirred the country. Death was caused by illness brought on by long exposure in the saddle. The news caused almost as widespread mourning in Europe as in America.

Bonaparte ordered public mourning for him in France. Great Britain showed her respect by lowering to half-mast all the flags on the British fleet of nearly sixty men-of-war lying off the coast of England.

The greatest statesmen and soldiers of every country united in paying him great tribute as a man, general, statesman and friend of humanity. His old friend and companion, "Lighthorse Harry"

Lee, had said of Washington, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." It was literally true. He had avoided the snares of partisan politics, had generously overlooked the harshest criticisms, and had respected the abilities of his opponents.

Washington was a slave-holder at his death, but he was in favor of the gradual abolition of slavery by legislation, and by his will he arranged that his one hundred and twenty-five slaves should be freed at the death of his wife, so that the negroes of the two estates who had intermarried might not be separated. He died at Mount Vernon two and a half years after the death of George Washington.

IX. MARTYNIA

The Martynia or unicorn plant is a low-spreading vegetable of very rapid growth with large, hairy, heart-shaped leaves, odd, showy flowers and long beaked pods which take on fantastic shapes and grow in profuse abundance. It is found largely in the south and along the banks of the Mississippi where its long, trailing vines and unusual appearance give it a decorative as well as practical value.

The young seed pods are used to make fancy pickles and should be picked when about half grown. Northern gardeners should sow Martynia seed in April or May and plant the seeds far apart.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

Planning an inexpensive dinner menu every day, for a family of four, taxes the ingenuity of the housewife. The following suggestions for a $1.00 menu may prove welcome.

Chicken Broth
Baked Beans with Onions and Bacon
Escalloped Tomatoes
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Quick Cherry Cobbler
Coffee.

EXCELLENT brands of chicken broth may be had for 15 cents a can. Two medium-size cans of baked beans, required for four people, cost at the rate of 3 cents for 25c, at sales, making 2 cost 17c. For escalloped tomatoes, 1 large can at the rate of 2 for 25 cents costs 13 cents. A small loaf of whole wheat bread costs 10 cents. Enough coffee for four people, at an average cost of 40 cents a pound, is about 4 cents. A can of cherries for the Quick Cherry Cobbler costs about 29 cents. It is made thus:—Drain the syrup from a can of sweetened cherries and put the fruit into a buttered casserole. Sift 2 cups prepared cake flour and mix with 2/3 cup of water. Beat well and pour over fruit. Bake 20 to 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with sauce made from thickened cherry syrup.

The above items of food come to a total of 88 cents. 12 cents may be allowed to cover the cost of the sliced onion to be mixed with the beans, 3 slices of bacon for top of beans in casserole, flour for cobbler, butter and sugar for the meal.

DENTAL HYGIENE

By ELIZABETH JEFFRIES

HIGH LIFE IS TELLING ON UPPER CLASS DOGS

VETERINARIANS are fast becoming expert dog-dentists. A boneless, dog-biscuitless diet is driving big city apartment-raised doggies to the dentists.

Nowadays when the limousine drops the society matron at her dentist's office the chauffeur is sent with the Pomeranian to the veterinarians where poor Fido is treated for the soft bleeding gums resulting from a faulty diet.

Nor is this story a day-dream made up by the veterinarians. In a motion picture which tells a thrilling story of just how, why, and where the teeth decay, and what to do about it all, Fido, with his bad teeth and sick gums is shown in all his misery.

He was injected into the picture as an awful example of what is actually happening nowadays, not only to him, but to human beings. For as the picture shows, we are all in the same boat. Fido's troubles are ours. And because of the same deficiencies in diet.

Accordingly, while the verdict is not exactly the same in both cases, the treatment is similar. Bones and dog-biscuit are prescribed for Fido, after his teeth are cleaned, and rough foods, and bone building dishes for his mistress.

But his mistress's gums must not be allowed to suffer while this change of diet is being effected. After the tartar has been removed from her teeth, and the sick gums given a chance to assimilate the tissue building qualities contained in the rough foods, a massage treatment is urged by the dentist. This consists of rubbing the gums gently night and morning with the finger. This stimulates the tissues, bringing new blood into the irritated territory, and carrying away the infections.

Fido? Yes, Fido sometimes has to allow his mistress or her maid to perform this gentle massage for him, before he can endure to eat his bone or the hardy dog-biscuit.

and the older citizens of the country.

You may say that this concerns the United States but little. That is doubtless true, and we ought to be thankful for it. But had the senate ratified the Treaty of Versailles and taken the United States into the League of Nations, these troubles of far away Roumania might have interested us quite a little. We would have been duty bound to uphold the Treaty of Versailles and the decisions of the

BENEFITS OF SAVINGS NOT LIMITED TO SUM INVOLVED

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift.

AT the age of 21 a certain young man and his bride moved to a farm where he received $240 a year, a house to live in, a garden plot and free milk. The first year they saved $150. For seven years the couple remained on the farm, adding steadily to their savings. Then they moved to a nearby city where he secured employment in a factory. In due time his thrift and industry brought him to the special attention of his employers, greater responsibilities were placed on his shoulders; he began to move up.

Today he is at the head of one of America's greatest businesses. This story is not unusual. Developments of this kind are so common that they attract only passing interest and comment.

But none of us can afford to be indifferent to the significant lessons which such circumstances teach. It should be realized first of all that the saving even of very small amounts will bring results entirely out of proportion to the sums laid by. Remember also that these small amounts in the course of a few years will grow to tidy sums which will then be ready when Opportunity comes knocking at the door.

But what is of still greater importance is the mental and moral discipline which comes with saving money at a period in one's life when such saving means real personal sacrifice.

These are the processes that build character. We hear a great deal about saving for the rainy day. This is laudable. We do not hear enough about saving for the sunshiny day—saving in the midst of poverty for the prosperity and success that are bound to come to those who practice thrift.

If there is magic anywhere in the development of possessions, it lies in the poor man's savings.

LESSON IN HOME DRESSMAKING

Fashion Uses the Flare and Cape on Frocks for Juniors with Simplicity and Chic

A GROWN-UP mode charmingly simplified to meet youthful needs is pictured in this frock. It is slashed at the center front, underlaced and turned back to show a collar of contrasting material. If preferred, however, the collar may be closed at the neck. The cape is removable and the front and back of the dress have pointed godets inserted to give the smart flare.

Developed in the new taffetas or flat crepes, the dress calls for four yards of material. Of the 54-inch fabrics only 2 3/4 yards will be required. To guarantee herself against errors, the home dressmaker must place the tissue on the material precisely as shown in the cutting guide, carefully reproducing every notch or perforation.

Then slash down the center of the front, as far as large perforation. Close seam at front of underlacing, and arrange on center-fronts, graduating to a point at the lower edge. Turn the underlacing underneath, baste, and press. Arrange cape on back with centers and edges even, matching notches seven on the shoulder. Next, sew front godet to front of dress, with side and lower edges even. Sew back godet to back in the same way, then close underarm and shoulder seams. Now take the collar and sew to the neck with center-backs even. Fold through the center and fell remaining edge over the seam. Join free edges of collar and close to the neck, or roll, as preferred.

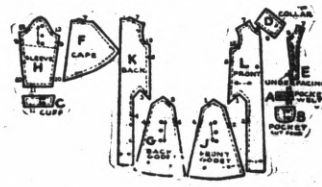

Gather sleeve between medium perforations and close seam. Sew cuff to sleeve with lower edges even and bring ends of cuff together over the seam. Sew sleeve in armhole, holding toward you while sewing. Small perforation in sleeve should be even with the shoulder seam and seam of sleeve, even with underarm sleeve of dress.

This model may be reproduced in a number of smart materials.

Helms Observes Silver Anniversary Of School Service

The silver anniversary of his pedagogical service in the Richmond and San Pablo districts is being celebrated by City Superintendent of Schools W. T. Helms. At the close of the school year, he will have completed twenty-five years in the school district where he has been both teacher and superintendent. Shortly after his graduation from the University of California, Superintendent Helms came to the San Pablo school. In 1905, he was transferred to the Richmond school district and in 1907 became superintendent of the city schools.

At the time of his coming to Richmond there were but eleven teachers and 611 students in all of the schools. He has seen the schools of Richmond grow from this amount to the present enrollment of 5,173 students and 182 teachers.

Sympathy Keynote of Success In Drama, Says Elsie Ferguson

Sympathy is the very keynote of dramatic success, in the opinion of Miss Elsie Ferguson, famous actress, now appearing in "Close Quarters." For how can you portray character, she asks, "unless you have the power to think its thoughts, feel as it feels, find within yourself every motive that moves it. And even that sensitive, sensitive mind and personality of another is not enough. Besides, feeling the reasons for the motives and acts of the person you seek to portray, you must have for these a sympathetic understanding. This does not mean that you must be saintly to reproduce the picture of a saint, or base to show the baseness of a villain. Shakespeare was neither saint nor villain, yet he could touch at will every emotional and intellectual key between the two."

Miss Elsie Ferguson

"Intolerance is an absolute bar to success in the drama, things. Miss Ferguson said. "For intolerance is based upon hatred and fear and these emotions freeze up the channels of expression," she says. "But intolerance is rare," she adds. "The business of portraying many characters gives one gradually a sense of unity with all humankind. One finds every potentiality of good and evil within one's own soul. And in the average person the good is so greatly predominated, divinity is so thinly veiled, that the sincere artist must come eventually to a feeling of respect for all mankind and a very real attitude of humility within his own heart."

Next to sympathy and tolerance, appreciation is the greatest aid to success upon the stage, Miss Ferguson believes. "Many generous and kindly people shower the artist with glowing eulogies after successful performance. The joy and inspiration conveyed by these bright symbols of approval and encouragement can scarcely be exaggerated. The custom of sending greeting cards to artists has come to be a very real impetus to the production of fine art."

"Do you absolutely lose yourself, forget your own individuality, in the character you are playing?"

FALLS IN LOVE WITH PICTURE ON BILLBOARD

Harry Langdon falls in love with the face of a girl that adorns a billboard as a preliminary to his comedy trials and tribulations in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," which comes today, to the California Theatre. This is Harry's first feature-length comedy under the terms of his recent contract with First National.

After falling in love with the billboard girl Harry sets out to find her. He finds her at last as the daughter of a wealthy shoe manufacturer, who is sponsoring a cross-country walking race. Harry enters the race and wins it. He also wins the girl.

In the course of the race Harry encounters all the misfortunes that a hiker can possibly be afflicted with. He distinguishes himself, however, by getting out of them without permanent injuries.

One of the most exciting scenes in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," is a cyclone scene, in which an entire township is swept off the map. Cameramen taking this scene had to be hoisted to trees and posts in order to prevent being blown away.

Harry Edwards directed "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." The supporting cast includes Joan Crawford, Edwards Davis, Alice Francis, Tom Murray and Brooks Benedict.

Other features include "Moving Day," a comedy based on the story of a married life of Helen and Warren; "Travel Treasure," a screen novelty; "International News," and Larry Canelo at the organ.

Songs of Love False; Actress Seeking Divorce

(By Universal Service).

CHICAGO, May 13.—The lantern of love has failed to show the way to Miss Vivienne Segal, prima donna of "Songs of Love," and today she filed a suit for divorce against Robert Ames, handsome actor, who at the present time is in Chicago.

Every night for twenty-five weeks, Miss Segal sang "Songs of Love," kept shining bright.

But the lantern failed to show the way to Miss Segal, and today she filed a suit for divorce against Robert Ames, handsome actor, who at the present time is in Chicago.

The romance started according to the bills of complaint, when Ames, with a "song" stirring love verses to Miss Segal, inspired by her beauty. But the verses, although good, didn't prove a divorce against the unfortunate married woman. The bill further states that the couple was married on July 31, 1923 by Mayor Frederick Freidenbach at Newark, N. J.

Miss Segal is one of the most popular prima donnas ever to appear on a Chicago stage and for the most part has been responsible for the long run which the show has enjoyed.

Lou Tellegen, who has made an enviable reputation for himself since signing a long-term contract to appear in the films produced by his remarkable career in "The Outsider," followed by his screen success, by that name which is coming to the Richmond theatre today and tomorrow. The all-star cast includes Jacqueline Logan, Walter Pidgeon, Louis Payne and others.

Tellegen, noted for his subtle villainy in Lew's dramatic version of Joseph Conrad's famous novel "Nostromo," has a kindred part in John Ford's Fox Film production, "The Outsider," he is believed to have depicted all previous efforts.

Much of the action centers in Eastern Hungary, where Tellegen is perfectly at home, and Director Lee found his quiet advice of inestimable value. The screen-play is replete with dramatic moments, particularly when the Gypsy chief, Tellegen, performs his magical cures, and how Tellegen displays his surprising artistic skill upon completion of the picture, declared it was a pleasure to direct Tellegen. He carried out his assignment with the fidelity of a child.

Other features on the same program include "The Haunted House," Buster Keaton's funniest comedy; and "Magical Movies," a Hodge Podge novelty.

Advertising pays you!

ADVERTISING brings to millions, at reasonable prices, comforts and conveniences that without advertising would be luxuries that only a few could enjoy.

America is an advertising nation. That is one reason why the man with moderate means here enjoys more comforts than most wealthy men abroad.

Because thousands on thousands of people ask for a certain article by the same name, which they have read in the same advertisements, it is possible for the advertiser to sell this item at a minimum of effort.

It is therefore possible to manufacture and to distribute this product at a saving which You share with the advertiser.

When you figure the number of these items in your daily life built by advertising, you can appreciate that advertising does pay you!

NOW COMES VITAMIN "D"

(By Universal Service)
ROBERT J. FLEMING
 LONDON, May 13.—Enter vitamin D to carry on the good work of nutrition already performed by vitamins A, B and C.
 Remarkable experiments carried out at the School of Bio-Chemistry at Cambridge have revealed the existence of the fourth vitamin, Dr. S. G. Willmott, who has been engaged in vitamin research for two years, experimenting with white rats and guinea pigs, now announces that vitamin D exists in varying amounts in the peel of lemons and oranges.
 "Hitherto the content of lemon rind has been a mystery," says Dr. Willmott, "but feeding experiments show that vitamin D specifically controls the nutrition of the curves. The peel also contains vitamins A and C in smaller amounts."
 "By microscopic studies we have traced a remarkable botanical system in the peel resembling veins and arteries, which would appear probable that the plant uses this system to transport vitamins manufactured by the help of the sun's rays into the actual body of the fruit."
 Vitamins also exist in the peel of the orange, grapefruit and lime, and their discovery will be very soon taken into account commercially, for while the fruit juices have long been recognized by science, like most valuable sources of stored sunlight, the peel has been regarded as a waste product. In food factories where tons of peel are thrown away annually, it should be utilized as a valuable source of vitamin energy.
 "The new vitamin D can be regarded as a sub-division of A, A diet lacking vitamin A produces eye troubles and arrests growth—a condition seen in Vienna and elsewhere after the war. Vitamin D is a controlling factor in cod liver oil, green vegetables and milk. It can also be supplied in the form of strong sunshine. Our main experiments confirm work already carried out in America."
 "The acceptance of the new vitamin will mean that a good deal of scientific work on foods already completed will have to be re-examined. A fifth vitamin, said to affect reproduction, has been reported in America, but so far it has not been traced at Cambridge."

Reducing The Food Budget

THE best intentioned housewife is apt to exceed the speed limit, now and then. In other words, she will spend more than her food budget allows, unless she gives close attention to details and makes a careful study of comparative prices.

It is an excellent plan for her to go over the weekly or monthly bills, now and then, with Friend Husband. For "two heads are better than one," in matters of this kind. Perhaps it will be his masculine mind that discovers she has been investing too recklessly in unseasonable foods. Fresh vegetables, for instance, are only now beginning to come down to normal prices. But a little investigation will show her that, even when they may be had at a reasonable cost, there is greater economy in the canned vegetables.

She will find this to be especially true, this year. Perhaps she does not know the reason, which is that certain of the staple vegetables, such as corn, peas, tomatoes and stringless beans, were very plentiful last summer. In consequence, the canners prepared for the market a much larger amount than usual and are therefore selling these products at greatly reduced prices. By taking advantage of these prices, the thrifty housewife is able to make a material reduction in her food bills.

So she watches for advertisements of canned food bargains. She finds them placarded daily in grocery windows and on printed weekly bulletins on the counters. These food bargains are usually offered at the rate of two or three cans for 25 cents—and even as low as three for 20 cents, in the case of canned tomatoes. The fact that the commercially prepared foods keep indefinitely enables the housewife to lay in a supply of them without fear of spoilage. Thus she may have conveniently at hand a varied assortment of ready-to-serve foods for her emergency shelf. And she serves not only the purpose of economy, but also of convenience.

In addition to the staples mentioned above, there are frequent bargains to be had in baked beans, evaporated milk, canned applesauce, sauerkraut, spinach, asparagus and pineapple. These things, because of their nutritive or medicinal values, are among the daily necessities. So it means a tremendous saving to be able to buy them at such remarkably low prices as now prevail.

Moreover, a little experience will teach the housewife that not merely in actual cost are the prepared foods more economical than the fresh, but in the matter of bulk. In preparing fresh vegetables and fruits for the table, a considerable proportion of them has to be eliminated. By the time fresh peas are separated from their pods, their bulk is materially reduced. The stringing of string beans produces a similar result. Tomatoes, also, after their skins, stems and bad spots have been removed, are noticeably less in quantity. It takes, for instance, about three pounds of the fresh tomatoes to furnish the same amount of edible food as is obtained from a large can of tomatoes, which may be bought at the rate of two cans for 25 cents, or about 13 cents a can.

Prepared foods, on the other hand, have had all their waste eliminated before they went into the can. What is transferred from the can to the table is solid food. The purchaser has not been compelled to pay for pods, or skins, or other inedible portions. In buying fresh vegetables, it is not easy to estimate the right amount for a certain number of people. But the housewife soon finds herself able to do this without difficulty, when purchasing canned foods, because the amount in cans of similar size is always the same, and every bit of the contents is edible.

Spinach offers an interesting illustration. The fresh boils away to such an extent, in cooking, that it takes three or four times as much fresh spinach as canned, to serve the same number of people.

The careless housewife, who does not take the trouble to look into these matters, should not be surprised if she exceeds her food budget. After all, it is the little things that count in matters of economy. Small extravagances eventually make big bills.

One bill seldom considered in connection with the food budget, yet which is materially affected by the type of food purchased, is the gas bill. The experienced housewife has learned that ready-to-serve foods mean a very considerable saving of gas. For they require but little cooking, this having already been done in the process of canning.

Hand Kissing Insincere But Handshaking O.K.

CHICAGO, May 13.—The foreign custom of hand kissing, is pleasant but insincere.

The American custom of hand shaking is perhaps not so pleasant, but it means something.

Thus declared Mrs. Elnor Riggs, Chicago society matron, who has just returned from Paris.

She gained notoriety there when she had $20,000 worth of jewelry taken by a ne'er do well French nobleman.

She said:

"It is largely to flatter their own vanity that Frenchmen are so chivalrous. Their custom of hand kissing is pleasant but insincere. American men are gallant to women because they are really thinking of the woman's comfort."

"Love making is the first thought of the foreign gentleman. I do not like them; they are conceited and deceitful."

Academy of the Immortals New Plan of Germany

By O. D. TOLISCHUS

BERLIN, May 13.—The German Ministry of Culture plans to erect a German "Academy of the Immortals," modeled after the well known French academy of the same name.

This academy would be composed of the greatest German literary lights, who would be first appointed by the Ministry, and would then elect their own new members, as the French academy does.

Technically, it would be known as the Academy of Literature, and would be a counterpart to the already existing Academies of Art and Music.

Its principal task would be to keep the German language pure and undefiled.

The end of the strike saves the Wimbledon Jubilee Tennis tournaments and the possible meeting of Suzanne and Helen Wills.

Firemen Burn Up Business Men Nine

In a "shin-dig" yesterday, misnamed a baseball game, the red coated firemen defeated the white collared business men, by a score of 11 to 7, at the Twenty-third street diamond.

Moos and Lavenue were the batteries of the firemen while Dick Austin and Ed Hill figured for the business men.

Haugen Bill Meets Strong Opposition

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A coalition of administration Republicans and conservative Democrats was being formed today to kill the Haugen Farm Subsidy bill and to push through Congress a combination of the Ticher and Aswell bills.

TEX RICKARD

What will modern science accomplish next? Now we hear, according to a sports writer that Tex Rickard will approach the New York State Athletic commission and ask if he can charge $50 for some people to see the great "Dempsy-Woodard" match to be staged in New York. There is nothing in the constitution forbidding the promoter from charging such a price, but who is going to pay $50 to see a fight of that kind?

"Have a Camel"

Open one up! The tobacco tells its own story

CAMELS are made of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. To prove what we say about Camel's tobacco quality, make this test:

Take a Camel and any other cigarette. Tear off the papers and place the tobaccos from the two cigarettes in separate piles. Now shake them up and examine the tobaccos. Your own eyes will quickly show you the difference, how the Camel tobacco is longer and of a riper color. Then gather up the two piles separately—and smell them.

You will at once notice the rich, fragrant aroma of Camel tobaccos not found in the other.

This marked difference is even more apparent when you "taste the smoke." It is solely because of the quality of the tobaccos and the skill of the blending that Camels never tire the taste, never leave a cigaretty after-taste.

Camels are so good that we know you will like them. Give them every test known and you will find Camels the highest quality cigarette made, regardless of price. Have a Camel!

Gall Bladder Troubles Gone!
To Whom It May Concern:
For over a year I had trouble in my gall bladder, pain on my right side, vomiting and a general run down condition. On February 23rd of this year I had an attack of appendicitis, the pain of which was so severe, that I could not sleep at night. I came to see the Chew & Chew herbaria and after taking one dose of herbs I was greatly relieved. I continued to take the herbs for a few more weeks and I am all well now. March 14, 1926.

Commissioner Glassie Denies His Wife's Sugar Holdings Influenced His Decisions

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Grilled for an hour regarding his participation in the sugar tariff case, despite his wife's sugar holdings, Commissioner Henry H. Glassie of the Tariff Commission, today defended his actions before the Senate investigating committee on the ground there was no law against it and declared that his conscience was clear.

With considerable heat, Glassie resented as "simply an insult" the suggestion that his wife's interest in a Louisiana sugar plantation would have influenced his actions. President Coolidge, it has been testified, supported Glassie's position when other commissioners raised the question of his participation on the controversial sugar report. Congress put an end to the row by passing an emergency act cutting off Glassie's salary if he persisted in taking part in the case.

"In the absence of any statute covering the subject, a man's conscience is the sole judge of his qualifications," declared Glassie, under a rapid-fire questioning from Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

"I knew in my conscience that my action would not be influenced by the possible interest which my wife might have."

"Your opinion is not final with me," retorted Robinson. "The manifest indifference of a man passing on his own qualifications in such a matter impairs the value of his judgment."

Glassie blamed the flexible provisions of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act for the rows in the commission and recommended its repeal, although he said that the commission had "functioned effectively" under it.

In further defense of his action, Glassie said that his wife owned but $11,000 worth of sugar stock and that an increase in the tariff rate on sugar would not have swelled her income more than $10 a year.

Pinned down by Robinson, Glassie finally admitted that he would like to see his wife's income "go up to a million, naturally." But even if he had voted to increase the sugar duty, the commission was merely a fact-finding body and could only report to the President on the facts, he declared.

Heavy Damages Are Sought for Crash Injuries

MARTINEZ, May 13.—In a suit filed here today, Peter Rosellini charges that negligent operation of a truck on the part of A. H. Strodé, driver for the Pioneer Dairy company at Pittsburg, was responsible for the accident in which he received painful injuries which may cripple him for life. Rosellini asks for $35,000 damages from Strodé and the dairy company.

Rosellini was standing beside an automobile on the streets of Brentwood about 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon of April 22, when a truck driven by Strodé backed across the street and crushed him against the other machine, according to the complaint.

He was rushed to the Martinez hospital, where he is still undergoing treatment for his injuries.

Actress Says She Wants to Live Until She's 150

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, May 13.—"I want to live until I am 150—in California and I hope to work on the stage until I die" laughingly declared Mrs. Leslie Carter, creator of any stage successes at her home in Hollywood today.

Mrs. Carter is recovering from a slight illness resulting from an infected finger. Her condition caused reports to be circulated in the east that she had only a short time to live.

The death of Lizzie, a Sealytham terrier, partially contributed more to Mrs. Carter's illness than did the infected finger.

"I just love dogs," said Mrs. Carter. "On the whole I believe I like them better than people. They never talk back. They never repeat the things you tell them in confidence and they are never unfaithful."

The dance last Saturday was a big success and more than 150 couples attended and enjoyed the affair. One hundred and twenty six dollars were the door receipts. J. H. Fitzpatrick, the manager, wishes to thank his friends for their keen cooperation and loyal support.

Dances will be given there every Saturday evening during the summer months and Fitzpatrick who has the reputation of conducting high class clean dances promises the public a series of good times and novelty dances and asks the mothers and fathers of Richmond to come and see themselves the high class character of these dances.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT IS SAID TO BE DISEASE

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, May 13.—"Love at first sight is really a disease," says Dr. J. R. Rees, a well-known psycho-therapist, who is lecturing to select West End audiences on "Problems of Family Adjustment."

"Lots of people marry because it is just the thing to do," he adds. "Married life is found as often as not to be a mistake. Marriage is a complicated relationship."

"A man's wife plays a good many different parts. She is his companion and that is very important thing. Then if the question of parenthood is left out, married life is going to be a failure somewhere. The wife must be the mother of children; mothering of husbands is tremendously overdone, although heaps of wives have husbands who demand it."

"Marriages are not made in heaven nor are they ready-made. Marriage has to be made from day to day and year to year. There must be something to give and take all the time."

"Taking sides with father or mother is very bad for children. There is an acute example of where a child saw her father hit her mother and became an extreme feminist, with a tremendous revulsion against the father all her life."

Russian Stutterers Are To Practice Tongue Twisters

(By Universal Service)
LENINGRAD, May 13.—A corrective of several thousand stutterers has been formed here with the aim of ironing out all their peculiarities of speech.

Under the direction of Professor D. V. Feldburg, of the Pathological Reflex Institution, former stutterers will be taught to say all the tongue twisters without once hesitating.

The program for the stutterers is very severe. First they must pass through a treatment designed to strengthen their will power. In this course each patient is supposed to supervise the speech of the other.

Those afflicted with peculiarities of expression can only join the Corrective if they solemnly promise to follow all special commands of healing which have been worked out by the specialists. Scientific laboratories will be opened to investigate the causes of stuttering.

Shoes Now Follow Hats Into May 15th Discard

A men's style edict calling for a national change from heavy leather brogues to summer-weight kid oxfords on May 15th has been issued by various shoe industry organizations.

"The national change from felt to straw hats on May 15th is a logical and sensible one. Comfort is the keynote to men's apparel and it is impossible for men to be comfortable in heavy leather shoes when the warm weather sets in," said Mr. James J. Lyons of the Tanners' Council of America.

Efforts to Find Polar Flyers Fail

during the early hours today, and passed southward, unable to see the giant flames burning since yesterday at the Nome landing field.

At an early hour today the United States Naval Radio Station at St. Paul in the Pribiloff Islands picked up the following message flashed through the air by the Norge:

"Airship Norge, bound for Nome, Alaska, broadcasting. Please answer if anyone hears us."

The operator at the St. Paul station tried in vain to establish communication with the Norge which is carrying the Amundsen-Ellsworth Arctic Expedition.

Later, however, the St. Paul operator reported that he heard the Norge call station RDG at Sredne, Kolkma, and his in-trepid aides and business houses are decorated in honor of the occasion.

It will be the greatest demonstration the Arctic region has ever known when the Norge drops her anchors at the flying field.

A huge arch with the words "From Nome to Nome" has been constructed across the city's main thoroughfare.

Artist Gives His Collection to The Government

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Joseph Pennell, distinguished American artist, before his death bequeathed his entire fortune, including one of the country's most valuable art collections, to the Library of Congress, it was announced today.

The will provides that the artist's collection, including the works of other artists in addition to his own, shall be turned over to the Library.

Trustees of the Pennell fund, created by the will, are directed to acquire additional paintings to add to the famous Whistler collection presented to the library by Pennell in 1920.

Establishment of a calligraphic museum in the Library of Congress, which will make possible the distribution of prints of famous paintings at a nominal cost to art students and the public is a third provision of the will.

This museum will acquire, by purchase or gift, the etched plates and lithographic stones of artists of note. The copies will be made by the Division of Prints of the Library of Congress.

Officials said tonight that it is a "vast gift" but declined to estimate the amount.

The deceased artist's will was made public by his widow to President Coolidge today. She was accompanied by Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Tinker, of New York.

"To make provision for this need, the shoe and leather industries have diverted their men's production to the lighter weight porous leathers like kidskin. As a national industrial policy men's shoes will be placed in the category of seasonal apparel, like hats, suits, underclothing—all of which are fabricated in light-weights for the summer season."

Family Wards of County as Father Serves Sentence

R. Enea, of Walnut Creek, sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or serve 600 days in the county jail on a charge of violating the liquor laws, entered the County jail yesterday. Enea is the father of nine children, all of school age and his wife is an invalid.

Prominent Walnut Creek citizens have signed a petition, which will be placed before the board of supervisors on Monday, practically placing the Enea family as county wards.

Enea's arrest followed an alleged sale of wine by him to county prohibition officers. At his first trial Enea pleaded not guilty but at his second trial at Walnut Creek he found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or spend 600 days in the county jail.

ARANDA GIVEN A SUSPENDED JAIL SENTENCE

With his charge reduced from assault with a deadly weapon to a misdemeanor charge, Jose Aranda of San Pablo pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice of the Peace L. F. Grover Wednesday afternoon and was given a ten days suspended jail sentence.

Deputy District Attorney T. H. Delap, after hearing the testimony of the witnesses in the case moved that the lesser charge be placed against Aranda. Aranda had been charged with taking a shot at his neighbor, Sam Vaughn also of San Pablo. Aranda testified during his hearing that someone had been prowling around his home recently and that he was on the lookout on the night of May 3, when the shooting occurred. He stated that he saw someone running from the house and when he failed to halt at his command he fired several times into the air.

Vaughn gave a different version of the affair and refused to sign a complaint for the lesser charge when the recommendation was made by Delap. Constable M. G. Moltoza, signed the complaint charging Aranda with a misdemeanor.

Shingle Men Want Tariff to Protect Their Industry

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Following a plea by Northwestern lumber interests, who said that Canadian competition is ruining the shingle industry, President Coolidge today ordered the Federal Tariff Commission to begin an investigation at once to determine if a tariff should be levied for protection of the industry.

Headed by Senators Jones and Dill, the Washington Congressional delegation presented E. B. Chinn of Seattle, member of the Loggers Association, and A. C. Edwards of Everett, Wash., chairman of the United States Cedar Industry Tariff Committee to the President.

Because of Canadian competition the number of mills producing shingles have been reduced from 400 to 175 in one year, Chinn declared.

Shingles are on the free list.

Girl Scouts Are Helping Humanity Says Dame Furse

(By Universal Service)
BRIGHTCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., May 13.—Dame Katherine Furse of England, told 500 delegates to the International conference of Girl Scouts and girl guides here tonight that the reason the movement among young girls was such a success was that it was psychologically correct.

"It is not so good to 'help' children," she said, "as it is to teach them to keep themselves and give them a chance to help others."

"We get the girls into the scout and guide clubs because it appeals not only to their love for adventure, but to their desire to assist their elders. Then we carry out the more important part of the campaign; the propaganda in behalf of better womanhood and better citizenship."
